The Le Nard Letters.

seriously impairs our credit with foreign nations. Railroads and other corporations which we have bolstered up, and which have obtained quotations in London and other markets of the world, have now been Gossip About the Arrival of M. Well, Gen, Ryan's photo's of the girls he left behind him have been disposed of, his "dog keeps watch for an loose and saving banks, trust companies, private bankers, these are other," (as do, perhaps, said girls also,) larger amounts than can be supposed to have been in the rockets of men or the tills and Congress is in session; these three of small dealers, but it may be left to the facts promise to make everything lovely, ingenious in such matters to divine what and leave Nast to return to his legitimate portion thereof was hoarded by the ignorbusiness of throwing stones at his betters.

And that brings me to remark that Carl Schurz and family have returned from Europe, and are here again to delight their old friends. I have had the opportunity of looking beneath the surface presented to the world in general, and may safely say that truer, nobler people than the muchabused Carl, and his wife, can hardly be found anywhere, certainly not within our

During the last bitter campaign, when Nast and his ilk worried that grand, good old man, Greeley, into his grave, and spared no one who dared to differ from the prescribed creed in politics, or rather manworship, they struck hard and often in the Senator's direction also. And not without cause, for if ever mortal bated and despised wrong, and offered a bold front in opposition, it was Carl Schurz, What wonder then that these paid detractors made him a special point of attack, and heaped all the abuse within their malign power upon his devoted head, causing him hours of such deep sadness as only a noble character, baffled in his best efforts, can experience. Many contend that a man, in the knowledge of his rectitude, need not mind such low attacks; that, however true in the abstract, does not hold good in every-day life, though. The strongest hearts are generally the most tender also; and thus it comes that he felt the injustice and malice of this warfare to their full extent and, wooing his tender comforter, Music, instead of the bottle as many would have done gave occasion for the well-known libe at him and his piano. Well father Time cures many wounds and I hope to see him do the fair thing in this case by bringing forth a re-election of the Senator, when the opportunity is presented to thus assure him of the confidence and respect of the people.

A curious kind of war is waging between the ex-Indian agent, John W. Wright, on one side, and the Administration, as represented by the departments of Justice. Interior and Post Office, on the other. The case seems to be this Wright went out as J. P. MILLS, Sole Prop'r. Indian agent, expecting, of course, as an equivalent for the danger and discomfort of the post, to make considerable money He succeeded, and then refused to divide with those who, according to custom, expected a generous slice of it. Then they felt themselves ill-used, swindled in fact, and were bound to not only oust him from his position, but make him disgorge as well. In order to do this charges had to be farnished which, unfortunately, could not be Wood and Cane-Seat substantiated in a fair way. Then somebod was sent out to the agency to "investigate Wright's letters to and from his friends misearried, and mysteriously found their CHICAGO. way into the Attorney General's office; in short, there was a warfare instituted which is anything but an honor to those concerned in it, and must necessarily involve them in trouble from a legal point of view.

Wright now publicly demands his letters. brings forward his accusations against the implicated parties, and raises the dickens generally. If it is fought out to the bitter end, which it has all appearance of just now, "there'll be wondrous doings in this here section," I assure you, and somebody will be hurt, in reputation at least.

There, that is surely a large enough dose regarding the big-wigs. As I write the sun shines into my room so warm and bright that I can hardly realize that Christmas is so near. My windows are full of germium heliotropes, roses and Japan lilies, and there his warm glances are taking effect in the shape of bunches of buds, which promise rare treats of beauty and perfume.. be sides any amount of saving when flowers are required for "prinking" on occasion like parties, operas, receptions &c I meant to give you a description of a Bohemian party I attended lately, but find that I shall not have room for the gushing I should be obliged to do, and will say an re-LE NARD.

VINEGAR BITTERS.

Dr. J. Walker's California Vin egar Bitters are a purely Vegetable preparation, made chiefly from the ma-tive herbs found on the lower ranges of the Sierra Nevada mountains of California, the medicinal properties of which are extracted therefrom without the use of Alcohol. The question is almost daily asked, "What is the cause of the unparalleled success of VINEGAR BITTERS?" Our nuswer is, that they remove the cause of disease, and the patient re-covers his health. They are the great blood purifier and a life-giving principle, a perfect Renovator and Invigorator of the system. Never before in the history of the world has a medicine been compounded passessing the remarkable qualities of VINNOAR BITTERS in healing the sick of every disease man is heir to. They blood purifier and a life-giving principle sick of every disease man is her to.
